

JOHN T. SCOPES IS FOUND GUILTY

Case of Tennessee School Teacher,
Charged With Violating Anti-Evolution Law, Appealed

NEW TRIAL FIRST DENIED

State Did Not Have to Prove Scopes
Taught Theory Contrary to Bible,
Judge Tells Jury

Dayton, Tenn., July 21—(U.P.)—John T. Scopes, high school teacher of Dayton, today was found guilty of violation of the Tennessee anti-evolution law.

The jury received the case at 11:20 a. m. and returned the verdict at 11:27 a. m.

Judge Raulston summoned Scopes before the bar and imposed a fine of $100. Bail for Scopes was fixed at $500 pending an appeal of the case to the supreme court of Tennessee.

"The state does not have to prove that the defendant taught a theory that denies the story of creation as related in the Bible, but that he taught that man descended from a lower order of animal," Judge Raulston told the jury.

Clarence Darrow then addressed the jury. "We came down here to offer evidence in the case but it has been held inadmissible. All we can do is to take exceptions and take it to a higher court."

Defense Attorney Hays moved for a new trial. This was overruled. Hays then asked for an appeal. This was granted.

William Jennings Bryan's Bible testimony under examination by Clarence Darrow was today ordered expunged from the record. The duel between Darrow and Bryan was ended.

Judge Raulston held that the testimony was not relevant to the only issue in the case, namely, whether Scopes taught that man was descended from a lower order of animals.

A laugh went up from the defense table when Raulston announced his decision but Darrow rose respectfully to enter an exception.

"Since the beginning of this trial the judge has had some big problems to pass upon," said Raulston. "There is no way to know immediately if I decided correctly. If I made a mistake it was of the head and not of the heart."

Darrow then asked Judge Raulston to bring in the jury and ask them to find Scopes guilty. The jury was sent for.

After Darrow had taken his exception, Bryan took the floor.

"I did not have a chance to ask the questions I desired to ask of defense counsel yesterday," he said. "So I will give to the press a statement of the questions I would have asked and let them broadcast it as they broadcast the proceedings yesterday."

"I object, your honor," interrupted Darrow. "Now, what's all this about?"

"I will have to depend on the justice of the press to print the questions which I would have asked you," Bryan said.

"I suggest that you take us both out," said Darrow, "and you ask your questions and let me answer them."

The contracting firm had offices in Rush county.

TRUCK INTO COUPE Lighter Automobile is Damaged Collision Near Glenwood

An Oakland coupe, belonging to H. D. Roberts of Riley, Ohio, was partly wrecked Monday night when it was hit by a truck driven by a man from Connersville, whose name was not learned, just east of Glenwood on the Connersville road.

Mr. Roberts was the only person in his car which from appearances must have been hit hard as the front fender and running board were bent double and the radiator and hood were smashed in. Mr. Roberts escaped uninjured and his car was brought to this city for repairs. No serious damage was done to the truck and it was able to resume its journey.

NORTHERN INDIANA BANK IS ROBBED

Four Heavy Charges of Nitro-Glycerine Used to Blow Vault at Larwell Early Today

LOOT AMOUNTS TO $1,000

Bandits Work Deliberately, Spending Hour and Half in Building—
Train Their Aid

Larwell, Indiana, July 21—(U.P.)—Bank robbers renewed their activities in northern Indiana early today when a successful raid was made on the Larwell state bank here.

Blowing the bank safe with four heavy charges of nitro-glycerine the robbers escaped with cash estimated by bank officials after a check-up, at $1,000.

The rumble of freight trains on the Pennsylvania railroad aided the bandits in escaping detection. Few citizens heard the explosion and most of them who did thought the noise was from the freight trains.

Ed Rice, hotel owner, living across the street from the bank, was aroused by the first explosion. He peeped from behind the curtains of the hotel lobby and watched the bandits. A tall unmasked man, armed with a gun, paced up and down the street in front of the bank keeping guard, while his confederates worked inside, Rice said.

Rice said the guard sighted him and warned him he would be shot if he attempted to spread the alarm and kept watch on him until the work was done.

The bandits worked deliberately, being in the bank for nearly an hour and a half. The heavy charges of explosives blew out the doors in the front and rear of the building and wrecked the office furniture.

Small coins were found scattered over the floor of the bank and several hundred dollars in gold hidden in the vault were overlooked.

Rice said he thought there were three men in the gang. Bank officials believed there were more.

The direction of their flight was not known.

Police officials of Fort Wayne, Columbia City, Warsaw, and other northeastern Indiana cities were notified and began search for the men.

Larwell, a village of 250 population, is ten miles northwest of Columbia City. It has no police protection.

CAST READY FOR CURTAIN TO GO UP

Full Dress Rehearsal For "Princess
Bonnie" Which Opens at Graham
Annex Tonight

CHORUSES ARE FEATURES

Court Dancers and Spanish Girl
Dancers to Form Colorful Part of Comic Opera

Everything points toward the success of "Princess Bonnie," the comic opera, which will be staged by the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity tonight and Wednesday night at the Graham Annex auditorium, under the direction of Josef F. Seabold, of the John B. Rogers Producing company.

All the principals in the production have been chosen with great care and are well suited for their parts. In the complete dress rehearsal Monday evening, the entire cast showed up splendidly and every indication points to the fact that this will be one of the best home talent shows ever given in this city.

In choosing Miss Irene Reardon for the title role of "Princess Bonnie," the talent committee did not fail to secure the voice and personality to meet the difficult requirements of the part. Denning Havens, as Roy Sterling, plays opposite her, and he will set a new standard for his interpretation of the most difficult role in the opera. The other principal characters also are taking their parts in an excellent manner and will add to the success of the show.

The court dancers numbering over thirty, and the Spanish girl dancers, will be the strong drawing features. A total of over sixty voices will assist the principals. Their costuming throughout will be diversified and beautiful, which will add much color and form to the opera.

The show will begin at eight o'clock and according to the ticket sale, the east of "Princess Bonnie" will be greeted by a full house. Although most of the seats are sold for the two evening performances, there still remains several good seats and people who have not their tickets, are urged to get them today, to insure themselves a good seat.

The proceeds from the show will be used for charitable purposes most of the money being turned over to the Woman's Council, to be used for their work.

RELIEF FUND BASIS PENDING LAW SUIT

Dispute Between Red Cross and Princeton Methodist Churches
Over Possession

BISHOP LEETE DEFENDANT

Injunction Sought to Prevent Red Cross From Turning Money Back to Churches

Princeton, Ind., July 21—(U.P.)—A temporary restraining order was issued in Gibson county court to prevent Indiana Red Cross officials from turning back to the Methodist church, $13,000 of tornado relief fund money.

Hearing on a petition for a permanent injunction on the case was set for August 3.

Suit was filed by Rev. Russell Phillips, local Methodist minister, who appealed to the Methodist churches of Indiana to raise $13,000 for tornado relief. Phillips gave the money to the Red Cross for distribution but Bishop Leete of the Methodist church demanded that the money be returned to the church and Red Cross officials had agreed to his demand when Phillips went to court to block the transfer.

Princeton, Ind., July 21—A suit over possession of $13,000 of funds for relief of tornado victims in south-western Indiana was to be filed in Gibson county court today.

The suit is the result of a long dispute over whether the money should be used for repairing the two Methodist churches in Princeton or turned over to the General Red Cross fund.

Rev. Russell Phillips, pastor of the First Methodist church, and T. M. McDonald, a trustee of the church, are the plaintiffs.

Bishop Frederick Leete, of Indianapolis, and Rev. George Murphy, superintendent of the Evansville district of the Methodist church, and Red Cross officials are named defendants.

Immediately after the tornado Rev. Phillips made an appeal to Methodist churches of Indiana and raised $13,000. The money was turned over to the Red Cross for distribution.

Bishop Leete demanded that the money be used for repair of the Princeton churches and members of the two congregations exclusively.

Red Cross officials informed Bishop Leete they would comply with his request and turn back the mon-

EIGHT BOYS AT CAMP CROSEY

Well Pleased With Lake Camp Conducted by Muncie Y. M. C. A.

Eight boys, six of them from Rushville, were taken to Camp Crosey on Lake Tippecanoe, near North Webster, Ind., Monday for a ten days' camp. They were well pleased with the Y. M. C. A. camp, which is operated by the Muncie Y. M. C. A., and look forward to a pleasant camping period.

A Rush county boys' camp at Camp Crosey was fostered by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. In previous years a camp has been organized by the two clubs, the 1923 and 1924 camps having been held at Turkey Run. Up to that time camps were always established close to Rushville.

RAINS CAUSE MORE DELAY IN THRESHING

Farmers are Not Discouraged Because Wheat is in no Immediate Danger of Damage

CULTIVATORS USED IN CORN

Very Little Wheat Received by Loca Elevators and Most of It
Grades No. 2 in Quality

Further delay in threshing has been caused by the rainy weather this week, but farmers are not discouraged by the delay. It is said that the wheat in the shock is in no immediate danger of being damaged by excessive moisture.

Many threshing companies had their machines running Monday morning, but the rainfall made it necessary to discontinue the work. Although there was no rain today, except in a few places, the wheat was too damp to thresh.

Several threshing companies got started last week and a number of good yields have been reported. A field on the Alice Fisher farm in Orange township averaged thirty-one bushels to the acre and the whole crop made an average of twenty-six bushels. A field on the John F. McKee farm in Noble township produced a yield of thirty-one bushels to the acre.

Farmers are finding that they can spend their time profitably during the wet weather. A number are running a cultivator through their corn fields to break the crust that has formed on top of the soil, due to the excessive rains. They believe much of the moisture that would be of immense benefit to the corn is running off. Other farmers are engaged in cutting weeds in the fence rows and along the road.

Elevators have not received a great quantity of grain, as rain has interfered almost every time with the threshing, and several days are then required for the moisture to get out of the shocks.

The wheat that has been received on the local market, has been fairly good, and most of it has graded as number 2. The yield per acre has not been checked, although it is understood that a fair yield has resulted in almost every section of the county so far.

Local elevators were not expecting any more grain until probably Wednesday afternoon or Thursday, on account of the recent showers. Threshing in most sections of the county has been delayed for the past two weeks, as much valuable time was lost last week, just when the wheat was in first class shape.

BIDS ARE DELAYED

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21—Opening of bids for construction of the foundation of the main building of the Indiana world war memorial plaza, was temporarily delayed today. The plaza commission was ready to open bids when they received a letter from Laurence Orr, chief examiner of the state boards of accounts, specifying the work to be submitted to the board.

ANALYZES THE GROWTH OF CITIES

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith Says
it Means "Go Right On and Work," In Address Here

VALUE OF GOOD LEADERS

Indianapolis Minister Compliments
Rushville on Beautiful Churches,
Homes, Streets

The ambition of every city is to grow, and by dividing the word into four parts, with each letter forming another word, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, pastor of the Seventh Christian church of Indianapolis, showed Rotarians how it could be done, in a vibrant address before the club today noon.

In passing, he complimented Rushville very highly as a city of homes, and gave voice to his appreciation of the city as he had observed it in previous visits to Rushville. The Rev. Mr. Smith made one of the outstanding addresses at the annual convention of the Christian churches of Indiana, held here in May, 1924. He has also spoken to the Kiwanis club here.

The Rev. Mr. Smith was presented by Winfield Stephens, who arranged the program for today's meeting. Mr. Stephens was a member of the Seventh church in Indianapolis and a great admirer of the Rev. Mr. Smith. Mrs. Smith accompanied her husband to Rushville and sang two contralto solos that were given generous applause. Miss Maxine Brown played the piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Stephens was also a guest and presented to the club. Others present as guests of members of the club were Dave Egelsfield and Henry Hoss of Indianapolis, William Orr of Indianapolis and John Gantner of this city.

It was announced by the president, George J. Griesser, that an attendance contest had been started, with the club being divided into two groups and a chicken dinner as the prize. B. O. Simpson is the captain of one side and Warder Wyatt of the other.

A man would "have to have sore eyes or a bad heart" if he could not appreciate the objects and the code of ethics of the Rotary club, Mr. Smith said at the outset of his address, commenting on several articles of the code.

"I want to congratulate the people of this city," he said. "I know you will know that I am not flattering you when I refer to your churches, your beautiful homes and the streets. It stands out in my mind as a city of homes, when I think of the many cities in Indiana where I have visited."

The speaker declared that there should be a local pride, but not too much localism, and he pleaded for a study of oriental and European problems by business men because they are so vitally interested in them.

He referred to domestic problems, declaring that it was not a question of whether the 18th amendment would be enforced, but whether the constitution of the United States would be enforced. He spoke of Colliers, which he called a "we" magazine, admitting prohibition was being enforced.

TO DEBATE EVOLUTION THEORY

Minister and Attorney to Argue
Question at Shelbyville

Shelbyville, Ind., July 21—Citizens of Shelbyville squared away today for an evolution scrap of their own.

Mayor Hoop granted use of the city opera house for a public debate on evolution between Rev. Maynard Pollard, Christian church minister at Fairland, and Douglas Dobbins, Greenwood attorney.

Dobbins, a radical anti-evolutionist, will argue against teaching of the theory in universities, colleges or public schools.

Rev. Pollard will support his contention that the teaching of evolution is not harmful to Christianity. Judges have been selected for the battle of words and the contestants agreed that each would be allowed forty minutes to hurl his shafts. The debate was set for July 31.

Peaches

Our other car of Georgia Bell White Freestone Peaches arrived today and are extra fine. I have a limited amount of large White Cling Peaches. This will probably be your only opportunity to get Cling Peaches as they are very scarce and hard to get. This is the last car I have ordered of White Peaches, so don't be left without canning them this time. Georgia is about through with their crop and it is just a chance if I am able to get any from the East. Peach Growers Association reports an approximate shortage of 7184 car loads compared with a year ago. We will have Yello Elberta Peaches by the car later.

WILL NOT INTERFERE

WILL TAX REDUCTION

Advocates of Big Navy Will Not be Permitted to Change President's Plans

EXPENSES TO BE EXAMINED

Swampscott, Mass., July 21—Mr. President Coolidge will not let advocates of a big navy interfere with his plans for tax reduction next fall. Senator Hale of Maine, chairman of the naval affairs committee of the senate, had been ordered by Mr. Coolidge to conduct an extensive survey of navy expenditures with a view to greater economy in order that congress may appropriate money for the construction of cruisers already authorized.

Mr. Coolidge told him it would be necessary to save the money needed for this new project in present naval activities and told him to make the survey.

Senator Hale called at the summer White House yesterday and told Mr. Coolidge it was necessary to strengthen the Pacific naval defense and advocated construction of a naval base on the Pacific Coast and additional facilities for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the key position in the Pacific naval strategy.

Mr. Coolidge told him it would be necessary to save the money needed for this new construction in present navy activities and told him to make the survey.

Congress last winter authorized several new cruisers, but appropriated only $11,000,000 about enough for one modern non-fighter and the president feels that all possible expenditures in the navy department must be trimmed if that branch is to be developed up to the limits of the 5-5-3 ratio.

Christ's Benediction: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. John 14:27.

The Future is Bright

There certainly has never been a time when the average American could look forward with more confidence to the future of his country than the present.

America is steadily forging ahead. The country is prosperous and is becoming increasingly so. The federal income tax rates have been steadily reduced during the past four years and further reductions are in sight. The government just closed its fiscal year with an unexpectedly large surplus and the national debt is being steadily whittled down.

The forecast of the Department of Agriculture indicated that the farmers of the United States will be blessed with bumper crops this year. Wheat and oats are more than coming up to expectations and the corn crop promises to be one of the biggest it not the greatest in our history. Prices of farm products promise to be satisfactory and the farmer seems to be emerging from the valley of depression into which he was hurled by the deflation following the war.

We are informed by the business interests that they are looking forward to fall business with renewed confidence. Favorable June statistics and brisk trade in seasonal goods have increased this confidence.

The Federal Reserve board in its preliminary report states that the department store sales in June were 1.6 percent ahead of June 1924.

These figures indicate that the business of the country is on the up grade, and the promise of good crops and prosperity in the farming communities give promise of even better times during the coming autumn.

And America is in good shape mentally as well as economically. Constructive ideas of government were never in greater favor in the United States than at present. The constitution of the United States is appreciated as never before, and the forces of socialism and decadence have, for the moment at least been halted.

The difference between America and Europe is still pronounced and every patriotic citizen of Yankee-land should take enough time off every day to render thanks to Providence that he is an American.

That Imaginary Pole

The North Pole itself is nothing there is no such place or thing, except in the imagination of geographers. The Pole is merely the theoretical point where all the imaginary meridians running north and south around the earth, like the division lines of an orange, come together.

It is as imaginary as the Equator.

or Tropic of Cancer. It cannot be exactly located or mailed down or marked with a surveyor's "monument." There is no land there—nothing but floating ice and a couple of miles' depth of ice water. It can be found only by the aid of the sun and stars, and every explorer arriving there will have to figure out or guess at its position all over again, as if he were the first discoverer.

During the Arctic winter, the Pole is regularly covered with ice. Peary found ice there when he arrived, and so was able to make observations and set up marks. But it isn't likely that tourists will ever visit that point of interest much in the Arctic night, and whatever fixed ice may form there in winter becomes broken and floating ice as summer comes on.

The South Pole is different. It is on high land in the middle of a big continent. So that point can be "mailed down" and identified by every subsequent visitor. In time to come, therefore, we may assume that the South Pole will be the popular one to visit on air excursions.

Gideon Wellman, who resides in North Morgan street, suffered two fractured ribs and also was seriously cut and bruised in a runaway, which happened near the John Stiers farm this morning about ten o'clock. Mr. Wellman had started to his farm south of the city, driving the family horse to a buggy, which had not as yet had the winter storm top and front removed from it. He was driving down the road at an unusual speed when a sheep, which was crippled stood up in the road and his horse became frightened at it, whirled and upset the buggy.

WASHINGTON—Nothing could be funnier—or more pathetic, maybe—than the naïveté of Americans who think this country will get some actual cash out of the financial negotiations the government is arranging with the continental European powers we made war loans to.

On the contrary, we're just about to shell out a lot more money.

TAKE France, for instance. She owes us around four billions.

Having scaled this amount down all he can. Finance Minister Caillaux will admit the rest and agree with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on the lowest interest rate he can get.

But of course France can't begin paying anything for another ten years," Caillaux will add. "Certainly not," we'll acquiesce.

"And in conclusion, now the French have re-established their credit," Caillaux will suggest, "how about letting 'em have a few more hundreds of millions?"

Which we will do, forthwith. You can bet on it.

FRENCH politicians are like politicians everywhere. Ten years is quite a while.

If the French government of today can get a 10-year moratorium the whole thing will be fixed, so far as the men who make the bargain are concerned. Let posterity stew over the actual paying—they'll be out of office, or dead, perhaps.

Same here. If present day Washington induces France to begin wiping out her war indebtedness to the United States a decade hence, word will be passed out to the American public, "We've attended to everything"—then, sotto voce, "A later administration can walk the floor over the question of collection."

Competition and Service

"If you look at the oil industry without bias," says W. C. Platt in the National Petroleum News of April 29, 1925, "I believe you will find that it has been a typical American industry with much competition and great freedom of competition in the last twelve or fifteen years.

Mr. Platt cites the case of Ohio—which is very similar to that of several Middle West states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

In 1912, Ohio had 63,000 automobiles. In 1924, it had 1,244,000 automobiles—or about 1980% increase.

To serve this vastly increased business has been a task of such herculean proportions that the oil companies then in business could not increase their facilities fast enough to keep up with the demand.

As the need of petroleum products increased, competition increased—not only to provide the additional service required but in order that society might function efficiently and smoothly.

An industry grows in response to the demand of consumers for more products and more efficient service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown in response to the demands of the public. It has grown in the face of keen, aggressive competition and holds its position solely through rendering a consistently superior service.

In ten Middle Western states in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates, there are some 3480 competitive oil companies.

In all of its dealings with competitors, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employs the same principles—fairness and justice which it insists are the rights of its employees and stockholders. To its customers it gives thoughtful service, superior products and the utmost of value for the money they spend.

It is by following these sound practices that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown from an organization of moderate proportions to be one of America's foremost institutions—in size, scope and service.

LEAGUE RACE IS STILL CLOSE ONE

Leaders in Major Leagues are still running neck and neck, with time getting shorter.

TIME THREE-FOURTHS GONE

Pittsburgh Pirates have lead over New York Giants, and Philadelphia Athletics are less than a half game ahead of the Washington Senators in the American League.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 21—Leaders of the major league pennant race are still running neck and neck into the turn of another week, which is bringing them to the three-quarters point.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are leading the New York Giants in the National League by a margin of one game and the Philadelphia Athletics are less than a half game ahead of the Washington Senators in the American League.

The interest in the pennant race has become so keen that baseball has subordinated almost every other summer sport. At the fashionable track meet in Atlantic City between the Oxford-Cambridge and Princeton Cornell teams there were constant requests from the crowd for baseball scores from the press box and the majority seemed to be pulling for the Pirates and the Athletics.

The Athletics came out of their slump last week and played the best winning ball in the two leagues. They won seven out of their eight games and went back into first place after having enjoyed a short stay in second position.

The Senators lost four out of their seven games last week. The club has missed Walter Johnson who has been in poor health and they naturally will have more power when he is able to work in his regular turn.

Coveleskie, the Cleveland cast off, has been the biggest surprise of the season and has proved to be the mainstay of the team.

The St. Louis Browns by winning six out of their seven games, moved into the first division and the Detroit Tigers, losing four of their seven games, dropped into fifth place.

The Cincinnati Reds who are making a season's record for ups and downs in the National League, moved up to third place but they are still nine games behind the leading Pirates. The Reds won four out of their six games and displayed the Brooklyn Robins, who won three out of seven games.

KEEPING ONE EYE ON THE SCORE BOARD

Yesterday's Hero—Dazzy Vance, star Brooklyn pitcher, drove in the winning run in the tenth inning, scored on himself and drove in another and beat the Cardinals, 4 to 3. Vance fanned 17, getting Hornsby and Bottenley three times each.

Frisch's triple and Meusel's single in the ninth inning accounted for two runs and the Giants beat the Reds, 6 to 5.

The Athletics knocked Joe Bush out of the box and beat the Browns, 8 to 3.

Babe Ruth hit homer No. 10 but the other Yankees couldn't do much with Rip Collins and the Tigers won again 9 to 5.

One balk and a wild pitch by Lee Meadows accounted for two runs and helped the Phils beat the Pirates 6 to 3.

Coveleskie won his twelfth straight game for the Senators when he downed the Indians, his former team-mates 9 to 1.

The White Sox split even with the Red Sox at 3 to 1 and 7 to 10.

Flashy fielding behind Benton's steady pitching gave the Braves a 6 to 3 victory over the Cubs.

Celtic, Hornsby Make Good

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 21—Conspicuous among the flashy performances during the first half of the major league pennant race was the fine showing made by Eddie Collins and Rogers Hornsby as playing managers.

If there is anything in that legend of baseball that the teams will finish approximately where they stood on July 4, the Chicago White Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals will finish in the first division and that will be much of a surprise.

The White Sox, with only ordinary material, have played fine baseball since the start of the season and they have confounded the opinion of many smart critics who thought they were just a flash when they remained up with the leaders during the early weeks of the pennant race.

The performance of the St. Louis Cardinals, under the leadership of Hornsby has been just as surprising because he transformed the team and made a winner out of it almost from the moment that he relieved Branch Rickey.

Collins, because of his long experience and his reputation for being one of the smartest men in baseball, was rather expected to be a success as a manager, but Hornsby, being rather backward, was thought to be more of an experiment.

In addition to assuming the burden of management, both Collins and Hornsby increased their individual work and played the best ball of their career.

Jean Borotra, Wimbledon champion of 1924, failed to win the British championship this year, according to London tennis writers, because he was so busy with private business that he couldn't find time to apply the proper time to training and to practice. During the Wimbledon tournament he had to make several airplane trips to Paris and the strain of travel and hard competition in the early rounds of the tournament almost wore him out.

Borotra seems to be one of those unusual amateurs who have to give first attention to his business. He came to the United States last winter and won the American indoor championship, but he had a busy time doing it. Several times matches in which he was scheduled to appear in the elimination rounds had to be delayed while he dashed to the airport from a business engagement in a taxi.

Most of the leading men players in this country and in Europe are engaged in some kind of a business that conveniently allows them to make their business schedule fit in with their tennis plans, instead of the reverse as in the case of Borotra, who has to play tennis only when he is not working instead of working when he does not have to play tennis.

Bill Tilden, regardless of what he says about his adopted career as a newspaperman, makes a living almost from tennis, and many other prominent players have an income that comes at least secondarily from tennis. Selling insurance or bonds on the reputation of a great tennis player is practically an art of professionalism.

As long as there is such a thing as amateurism in any sport, there will be hints about cheating and beating the rule, but in some cases it is hard to figure how some tennis players have so much time to play tennis. Recently, it was reported that a man prominent in American tennis, was discussing the reasons why a great tennis player would not enter the American tournaments and he was reported to have said: "For the $10,000 we could get that player any time."

Harvard has settled the pesky problem of summer baseball with a radical rule. The athletic association ordered that all Harvard athletes who cared to get a place on any Harvard team next year could not play ball with any semi-pro team even if it could be proved that there was no compensation involved. This may end down the supply of baseball material because a player naturally must have some practice, and experience, but it will cut off the source of any scandal.

The idea in many of the big universities is to allow a baseball player to do anything as long as he is not caught at it.

495 BUS PETITIONS HAVE BEEN FILED

Two Hundred and Seventy Five of the Cases For Certificates to Operate are Closed

Fight Over Control of Transportation Industry in Indianapolis Cleared Away

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21—(U.P.)—The worst of the jam of work incident to placing the new state bus law into effect is past, members of the state public service commission believed today.

The latest report of Howell Ellis, secretary of the commission, shows that a total of 495 petitions have been filed for certificates to operate bus or truck lines.

Two hundred and seventy-five of the cases have been closed and two hundred and twenty are still a waiting action.

Of the cases closed, 250 were granted operating certificates. In sixteen of the remaining 25 cases petitions were denied. Seven petitions were withdrawn and two certificates were held up and will probably be granted later.

Petitions have been filed for a rehearing in five of the cases where the original petitions were denied. Only eighty six of the petitions which have not yet been disposed of are still waiting to be assigned to a commissioner. These cases, John W. McCordie, chairman of the commission, said will be assigned at an early date.

The fight over control of the transportation industry in Indianapolis between the street railway company and the Peoples' Motor Coach Co., was cleared away last week.

This will leave the way open for the commission to dispose in rapid order of cases which take much less time than the Indianapolis hearing required.

SAME SCIENCE TEXT IS USED IN INDIANA

"Civil Biology," Which Stirred up Trouble in Tennessee, Approved by Indiana Board

ADOPTED THROUGHOUT STATE

Not Regarded by Educators as Radical in Tone—Discusses Doctrine of Evolution

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21—(U.P.)—The same text book which whipped up the evolution tempest in Dayton, Tenn., is in use in Hoosier schools. It was revealed today.

John W. Scopes, on trial for violating the Tennessee anti-evolution law, used "Civil Biology" by George W. Hunter, in flying in the face of the Tennessee solons who voted to bar the theory of evolution from the schools of that state.

The same book is approved by Indiana by the state board of education. It is not regarded by educators as radical in tone and was selected by officials of Manual Training High school as a text book in the science department.

Other schools over the state have also used the book, it was stated.

Hunter's text discusses the doctrine of evolution in plain terms and refers to Charles Darwin as "the great English scientist."

Darwin was the first scientist to promulgate the theory of evolution.

"We have now learned that animal forms may be arranged so as to begin with very simple one-celled forms and culminate with a group which contains man himself," says an extract from Hunter's book.

This arrangement is called the evolutionary series. Evolution means change, and those groups are believed by scientists to represent stages in complexity of development of life on earth.

"Naturalists believe that all backboneed or vertebrate animals are related to each other through being descended from a common ancestor, the first or oldest backboneed animal."

The book classifies man as an animal having a backbone or vertebra. "Animal Studies," a text by Jordan, Kellogg, and Heath, also in use in Indianapolis schools, also goes at length into the theory of evolution.

"It is believed," says the latter book, "that the descendants of the first backboneed animal have in course of time through successive generations branched off little and little from the original type until there came to exist very real and obvious differences among the backboneed animals."

Teaching evolution from Robinson and Beard's Outlines of European History, resulted in the ousting of Floyd Deen, high school at Oriole, Ind., by August Dooze, trustee.

The book, also approved by the state department of public instruction, briefly explains the Darwinian theory of evolution and traces its effect on modern European thought. Deen said he confined himself strictly to the contents of the text book in explaining evolution to members of his classes.

400 CLUB MEMBERS TO ATTEND ROUNDUP

Of course, the girls will all be interested in these contests but they too will determine a champion at 11:30 when Mrs. Oscar Rees, Mrs. Alva Cole and Mrs. Floyd Reddick will announce a potato peeling contest for the girls. Each girl's club shall select before the contest two girls to represent them who will furnish their own knife and 6 potatoes.

Immediately after dinner an unusual program has been provided for those attending the picnic. Barton Rees Pogue who writes "Songs of the Soil," for the Indiana Farmers' Guide will provide a program of a varied nature. In addition to an unlimited number of humorous selections, Mr. Pogue will give a four-act comedy. Mr. Pogue has been appearing at a number of chautauquas in Indiana during the last few years and is very enthusiastically received at each performance. It is regarded as certain that he will make a big hit with club members as well as their parents, in Rush County.

NO BAND PRACTICE

The Rushville city band will not meet tonight for its regular Tuesday evening practice on account of many of the members being with the orchestra that will play for the show at the Annex auditorium, "Princess Bonnie."

General McKenzie suggested that after the trial has ended Bryan and Darrow get together at a public discussion and there air their views. The jury was then brought into the room.

Agreement was then reached by attorneys for both sides to dispense with argument and give the case at once to the jury. This did not amount to a change of Scopes' plea of "not guilty," however.

"There was nothing else left for us to do," Malone explained. "We could not offer our own witnesses. We could not continue examination of Mr. Bryan and the testimony that we offered was expunged from the record."

Darrow told the judge there was no use wasting any more time.

"We claim," he said, "that the defendant is not guilty of violating the law, but as the court has excluded all testimony except that Scopes taught that man descended from a lower animal, which I cannot contradict, there is nothing left for us to do except to ask your honor to instruct the jury to return a verdict of guilty."

Judge Raulston then recessed while he dictated his charge to the jury to the court stenographer.

Attorney General Stewart and his associates decided it would be best for their case if Bryan and Clarence Darrow ceased the wordy battle over the Bible which amazed and thrilled spectators on the courthouse lawn, to which the trial had adjourned yesterday because of fear the building might collapse.

Stewart also was prepared to prevent Darrow taking the stand for cross-examination by Bryan as the Commoner desired.

Hopeful of being in some way able to prevent over-crowding, Judge Raulston today ordered the trial room to be vacated.

The court house was in the same condition as when it was evacuated with cracks in the ceiling beneath the court room and signs that the stairway leading up from the first floor might give way.

Darrow was ready to proceed with his examination of Bryan today if permitted, "to show up what fundamentalism is."

Conference last night among states attorneys however, disclosed determination not only to end the inquisition but to prevent Bryan from going through with his announced intention of putting Darrow, Malone and Hays on the stand in turn.

Attorney General Stewart was indignant and disgusted at the turn the trial took yesterday, and said he would make every effort to pull it back on the track. He contended that the examination of Bryan was strictly illegal. Raulston, however, held the key to the situation and until he gave the word or Bryan asked to be excused, the grilling of the Commoner could continue.

Assuming that the amazing duel between the giants of the defense and prosecution it put to an end today it seemed probable that argument would be finally reached.

Once this point is achieved, the trial definitely is in its final stage. Judge Raulston told the United Press today he expected the trial to end tomorrow. Raulston, in the course of proceedings yesterday, sharply defined the only issue upon which argument would be permitted. This is whether the defendant, Scopes, almost lost sight of now, taught that man descended from a lower order of animal. Restricted in this manner, the arguments should not take long to dispose of, although eight hours, four hours for each side, have been tentatively allotted.

Yesterday's session was probably one of the most dramatic and grotesque that a legal proceeding ever experienced. It opened with the citation of Clarence Darrow for contempt of court, swept through the reading of 65,000 words of scientific affidavits on the subject of evolution, the Bible and the schools, then in rapid succession, touched three elixirs; the apology and absolution of Darrow from the contempt charge, the abandonment of the court room and finally a mighty contest between Bryan and Darrow, arch enemies in the field of thought. It was brought to an end in the midst of a tumult only by the peremptory thump of Judge Raulston's gavel which adjourned proceedings while Bryan and Darrow were at the height of a stormy clash.

MUDDY COMPLEXION GOES WITH BAD STOMACH. DI-JO REMEDIES THE CAUSE

A strong, healthy appetite, a fine complexion, good health and a strong body go with a healthy stomach. If your food isn't giving you strength, if your face is pasty and you have a muddy complexion there is something radically wrong, and the probabilities are that it may be your stomach.

You eat food merely to keep the body going and if that food imparts strength to the body then it is doing its work well. But if your stomach is sour, if there is gas on the stomach, if you feel languid and tired after eating, if you have gas pains about the heart, THEN LOOK OUT.

DI-JO ORDINARILY WILL CORRECT THIS CONDITION. It neutralizes the over-acid condition of the stomach. It helps the stomach to take care of the food and strengthens the digestive juices so that instead of your food remaining there, a mass of undigested garbage, it is quickly and properly digested. Of course you don't have to take DI-JO forever, but you will want to take it until the stomach regains its normal condition and until it can do the work it is supposed to do. DI-JO merely steps in and fills the gap while the stomach rests.

If the bowels are lazy you should take DI-Vac in connection with DI-Jo but only for a limited time because in a few days the normal condition of the stomach will make the use of a laxative unnecessary.

You will find DI-Jo and DI-Vac for sale by all druggists.

Friendship Through Advertising

Friends make or break a man.

Friends make or break a business.

The ability to make and hold friends is a test of true character and quality, both for a man and for a business.

Friendship counts double in times of need—for a friend can be relied on through thick and thin.

A business without friends is one that crashes at the first rough going.

Advertising's great strength lies in the fact that it is a form of service. To tell the public what it wants to know is a positive, definite service.

Advertising invites new people to come within friendship's range. It strengthens old bonds by reminding of service already rendered and telling of service to come.

We offer you the same service and friendship in helping you plan and assimilate your advertising. Let our representative talk it over with you. A phone call will bring him.

It took away that dragging feeling and improved my health in every way. I was able to continue my work with more vigor than before and I recommend the Vegetable Compound to all young girls. I am married now and have a big baby boy and am in the best of health. "The Love Light," Princess

The startling and unusual effect of sightless eyes shown in Mary Pickford's latest United Artists production, "The Love Light," which is the attraction at the Princess theatre today is the discovery of the star's director, Frances Marion and her husband, Fred Thompson.

When Miss Marion figured on having a blind man in a few of the scenes she immediately tried to devise some method of getting away from the usually stereotyped stare or closed eyes which have been shown so many times on the screen.

While on the boat returning from Italy where the scenes are laid, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson began experimenting on each other's eyes, and finally devised a film that is now used, the nature of which they will keep a secret. It took some little argument to convince Raymond Bloomer, the leading man, that it would in no way injure his eyes, and as it would be only for short flashes, they finally secured his consent to use the new method. However, as an extra precaution, Miss Pickford engaged an experienced oculist to stay on the set during the filming of these scenes.

Miss Marion also devised a number of other effects which will be seen in "The Love Light."

"Black Lightning,"

"Black Lightning" with "Thunder"—the Marvel Dog in the star role, and presented by Samuel Sax, comes to the Castle theatre for two days commencing today. "Black Lightning" is from an original story by Harry Davis and was adapted for the screen by Dorothy Howell. It was produced and directed by James P. Hogan.

In the support of "Thunder"—The Marvel Dog, who has the principle role in "Black Lightning," Mr. Sax has engaged a cast far and away above the usual. Clara Bow, who is considered one of the brightest stars on the screen today, plays the leading feminine role. The balance of the cast includes such well known favorites as Harold Austin, Eddie Phillips, James Mason, Joe Butterworth, Mark Fenton and John Prince.

"Black Lightning" is a heart-interesting story that is replete with swift, clean action and holds the spectator spellbound. The action is laid in the hills of Kentucky, and the story is realistically told.
